

Switching between help centers in the dashboard

Uncategorized

In case you have several help centers, at a certain point, for example, while looking at the stats of one, you may want to directly go to another help center you are managing.

You can easily do this from help centers menu at the top left corner of your dashboard by clicking on the arrow next to your current help center subdomain:

